“Growing up in Boca Raton and living here most of my life, I have written about and visited many country clubs in South Florida. I also happen to live in one, but something really special stood out for me about Gleneagles Country Club - its people. Community spirit at Gleneagles is soaring strong. Whether its members are donating their money or time to charity work or simply spending time with each other, the members and staff at Gleneagles are a harmonious example of how a luxury community can also be one big happy family. I invite you to enter this club with me and learn more about its people and all the wonderful new projects under way at this facility. From a new golf course to a calendar packed with fabulous social activities, Gleneagles is in flight for a fantastic experience.”

GLENEAGLES SOARS TO NEW HEIGHTS

BY JOANIE COX

Gleneagles Country Club has a rich history of offering its members the best in country club living. Originated in 1984, Gleneagles has had a total commitment to providing top-notch golf, fitness and tennis facilities and a luxurious clubhouse for its members to kick back in and enjoy a fabulous cocktail or gourmet meal.

Located on 404 acres, Gleneagles will be home to a brand new golf course this November. This is a wonderful addition to an already outstanding club, whose first members included PGA Tour legends such as Doug Sanders, Sam Snead, Billy Casper, Gay Brewer, Bob Goalby and Doug Ford.

“Currently we are renovating the Legends golf course. We started in April of this year. It’s about a seven-month process. We do anticipate opening the golf course back up on Thanksgiving,” says Jason Bagwell, Director of Golf Course Maintenance at Gleneagles Club. “We’re not just giving it a face lift. We’re doing a complete renovation, which means we’re starting from scratch,” Bagwell explains. “We bulldozed the old golf course down to dirt and we started over. It’s a $5 million project, which consists of a brand new design, new irrigation system, new pump station and all new drainage.”

Bagwell points out the old golf course was flat and the landscape of the new course will be improved. “The greens on the old course were very small. The grass was out dated and now we’re going to have a lot of new updated features, such as larger greens and larger tees to accommodate heavier play and more golfers,” Bagwell adds. “We’re going from a tropical scene, which is what we have on our Victory golf course. It has a lot of coconut and royal palm trees and a lot of color. On the new Legends course, we’re going to have all native plants and trees like sabal palms, cypress trees, saw palmettos and everything native to Florida. A golfer will now have the chance here to play two different courses on the same property.”

Gleneagles’ other golf course, the Victory course, was renovated in 2006, so that combined with the new area to play will take golfing at this club to a new level. “The new golf course appeals to a wide variety of players. The tee selection the ladies will be playing is anywhere from 4,500 yards to 5,200 yards. And the men can play anywhere from 5,500 yards to all the way to 7,000 yards,” Bagwell says. “A 7,000 yard golf course is championship yardage. It should attract new members and accommodate all the members we already have.”

Architect Kipp Schulties, at the helm of the project, has done a lot of courses all over the world, but he has a strong focus in Palm Beach County.

In addition to the golfing-enhancement project, Gleneagles is already home to an award-winning tennis program, prime health and fitness facilities and a breathtaking clubhouse that offers two full-service restaurants and lounges and posh banquet facilities. The club also has a great golf-pro shop that carries the latest in golfwear from DKNY Golf, Ralph Lauren, Jamie Sadock and Cutter and Buck to stylish Oka B flip-flops to sport for an afternoon lounging at one of Gleneagle’s fabulous pools. Gleneagles also has seven satellite clubhouses with libraries to relax in, a computer lab to stay up to date with the latest technologies and billiard and card rooms to get your game on in.

Whether members want to keep their competitive edge on the golf course or tennis courts, catch some rays relaxing at the pool or meet up with friends for a cocktail at one of Gleneagle’s lounges, there’s no shortage of ways to live fabulously at this remarkable Delray Beach Club.

THE GOOD LIFE: Dazzling dining and remarkable recreation areas await at Gleneagles. ERIC BOJANOWSKI

COMMUNITY SPIRIT GOING STRONG AT GLENEAGLES

BY JOANIE COX

As General Manager and COO of Gleneagles, Kraig Spina has brought a lot to the table in his seven years at the club, including the club's "Victory" course renovation in 2007 and the $5 million reconstruction of the Legends golf course set for completion around Thanksgiving. But what Spina is most proud of is something intangible he believes sets Gleneagles apart from any other club in the area.

"Collectively, Delray and Boca Raton have some of the most beautiful clubs in the country and I think we're right up there with the best. Everybody has nice facilities like golf courses and beautiful tennis courts and phenomenal clubhouses," Spina says. "But what sets us apart is the warm, friendly small town environment we've created. There is no caste system in Gleneagles. It's a very homogeneous community. When a member joins this club, there's no social maze where they have to figure out where they belong. People don't ask you where you live. They don't ask you where you come from or which community you live in. That warm welcoming environment is really what sets us apart."

Constant communication with Gleneagles board, committees and membership are other assets Spina believes keeps the club thriving. "Bricks and mortar are the easy part, but what I'm proud of is we have one of the best management teams. I'll put our management team against any club," Spina says. "The average tenure of our team is still 12 years. I brought in our Director of Golf and our golf course maintenance. The rest of the staff has pretty much stayed here. I'm proud of the team we developed and how we harvested the talent from these people who have been here so long."

Spina, who has worked in the country club industry for 24 years running clubs in the Carolinas, Indonesia and Jakarta, also takes pride in being accessible to members.

"I'm out talking to members as often as I can be. They don't have to come to my office. That's what it's all about," Spina explains. "I love to take my tours around the club. I love to walk down to the tennis courts, I take a ride onto the golf course. I like the membership here. They're wonderful people."

But something he's continually inspired by is just how big Gleneagles' members' hearts are. "We're so proud of our charity work here. In one Play for Pink golf tournament, we raised $210,000," Spina recalls. "When the Haitians had the catastrophe in their country, our members wanted to help out without even being asked. Our members have a very philanthropic mind-set. They like to help people. When we need volunteers for events, we run out of space. That's the kind of caring and giving back they show us."

When he's not running Gleneagles, you can find Spina golfing, fishing, spending time with his family or racing his Subaru out on the track. But getting up every morning and returning to a job he truly loves is the ultimate rush. "Seeing our members happy and knowing they're getting a great quality product with phenomenal amenities and facilities is very important to me," Spina concludes. "They have great camaraderie and our members really support the club. It's extremely rewarding watching this community grow and continue its vision of community spirit."

FALLING IN LOVE WITH GLENEAGLES: Members get a room with a view with waterfalls, such as this one outside the clubhouse. ERIC BOJANOWSKI

WE ARE FAMILY:

"The congeniality of the members here is strong. You're never alone. Everyone's very caring and there's a feeling of being part of a large family here."

LEADING ROLE:

"We have an active committee arrangement here. We have meetings on a regular basis and I attend every meeting to stay informed of all the events and ideas going on here."

SWEET EATS:

"Food service at Gleneagles is a notch above what's out there. Our food service is something we're very proud of."

CHARTING A NEW COURSE:

"I think we're going to be very proud of the new golf course. It's going to be magnificent."

GLENEAGLES SOCIAL SCENE IS THE PLACE TO BE SEEN

Randee Spencer, Social Director

Experience at Gleneagles: 5 years

WE GOT THE BEAT:

"We try to do a mix of '50s, '60s and '70s music in the lounge. Our members are also really into salsa and merengue now."

JOY OF THE JOB:

"I really love watching members come out of an event saying how much they enjoyed it. That makes me so happy."

SOCIALLY SPEAKING:

"We offer a variety of lectures here as well such as Barbara Klein, who lectured on why one would want to be president, and Rod MacDonald, who spoke about rock music and The Beatles."

DANCING THE NIGHT AWAY:

"Every Saturday night of the season we have dinner dances. Our members really love to have a good time."

RESIDENTS HAVE A JOLLY GOOD TIME AT CLUBHOUSE

Nick Jolly, Clubhouse Manager

DREAM THEMES:

"We do two wine and gourmet dinners during season and we also do a steak night. We have theme buffets once a week through the season. We do Italian night, a French night, Chinese and theme everything around whatever country it is. We also do a Cinco De Mayo party with great Mexican food."

LOUNGING AROUND:

"The lounge is really well supported. On Friday nights, it's so busy, it's packed. People also enjoy the bar down stairs, The Glen Bar. It's more of a 19th hole, sports-theme bar. It also offers casual dining during season. You can wear shorts or jeans and have a nice steak. We also do a dinner dance every Saturday night of the season with a variety of different bands that play."

WORK PERKS:

"It's different every day. We have a great membership. Our members as a whole really enjoy the club. They use the club and really appreciate how hard the staff works. It's a nice atmosphere and there are several staff members who have been here 20 plus years to demonstrate that. You get to know the membership very well and it's really more like a family."

CHEF STEVE COOKS UP GOURMET EVERY DAY

Steve Nardiello, Chef

Experience at Gleneagles: 24 years

SIGNATURE DISH:

"Our Honey Mustard Cedar Plank Salmon is really popular. All the healthy foods are popular with our members."

DINING REDEFINED:

"We're always thinking of new foods to offer our members. We have 12 rotating speciality salads on our buffet. We offer a different menu every day. We make anything from French and Italian cuisine to Jewish comfort foods."

WHAT'S COOKING?:

"We do steak nights and lobster feasts by the pool. We always have omelette and carving stations on our buffet. Wednesdays and Sundays are our traditional buffet nights. We love giving our members variety."

MOST SATISFYING PART OF THE MENU:

"I love doing something different all the time. That's what keeps you fresh."

GOLF KEEPS THE SWING IN THINGS AT GLENEAGLES

Joe DeMino, Director of Golf

Experience at Gleneagles: 1 year

GOLF IS IN HIS BLOOD:

"I was the head golf pro at Boca Country Club, which is the members' course for the Boca Resort, and prior to that, I owned and operated a club for 20 years in Rochester, N.Y. My dad was a PGA professional for 55 years. From playing to teaching to running a day-to-day operation with golf, I've always enjoyed the sport very much."

TOP PRIORITY:

"One of the greatest things about this club is it's all about taking care of the members with day-to-day operations and that's what I enjoy. We put 100 percent into making sure our golf shop, teaching clinics, leagues, tournaments and facility are excellent."

NO 'I' IN TEAM:

"I love bouncing ideas off our staff and golf professionals from tournaments to different items in our pro shop. We want to make sure we do whatever we need to fit our members' needs."

TALK OF THE TOWN:

"To be doing a complete renovation with a driving range, full irrigation, and wall-to-wall turf is great. To work with Kipp Schulties, the golf course architect, is amazing. He's one of the best. To see what he has transformed already out there is absolutely amazing. It's going to be unlike any course. By having the Legends course and the Victory course, you have two different tastes. You have much more of a challenge, more yardage or you have the Victory course which is not as long in yardage but it's a little bit tighter with more precision on your shots and not as long in distance."

ON PAR PROGRAMS:

"We discuss training for golf in the fitness center, but one of the biggest things we do is our committees. We work with our ladies committees for their nine and 18 hole leagues and the men's. We thrive on many tournaments here from a Gleneagles Cup Match to a Club Championship to a great mixed member guest event that brought in members from other clubs to showcase our facility. We do a great event here, Play for Pink. This year it's going to be Feb. 7, with Mrs. Budow and Mrs. Goodman, and it's going to be fabulous. Then there's another event with Eagles Cancer Chapter that's great as well. These people love to play golf. Whether it's nine or 18 holes, our couples events have over 100 people for every one of them."

ROCK STAR: The waterfalls at Gleneagles are one of many breathtaking sites to take in at the club. ERIC BOJANOWSKI

SERVING UP A TENNIS PROGRAM EVEN STARS CAN'T PASS UP

TENNIS IS A TEAM EFFORT: In this Tennis Directors Award image, Dr. Gerald Marks, Ann North and Doris Copock share a special moment with Mike Puc, far right.

Mike Puc, Director of Tennis and Fitness

Experience at Gleneagles: 15 years

ACING IT:

"We have 21 courts with a great design. We have a main stadium court where we'll have exhibitions and different pros to entertain the members. The other courts are combined in two-court batteries with canopies and water. Not every club has that. It's laid out very nicely. They're Har-Tru courts."

SIGNATURE TENNIS MOVE:

"Pick the best doubles partner that will play with you."

TENNIS TIP:

"You get in shape to play. You don't play to get in shape. It's a physical game. Technically speaking, footwork is something people don't concentrate enough on. I don't do grips. You train your body as a whole. And you have to train the mind. It's a very cerebral game, much like managing a golf game. You have to manage your tennis court. Anyone can learn the strokes from a good instructor but these are the intangibles that often get overlooked."

COURTING CELEBRITIES:

"Ivan Lendl lived here. He played the US open with a Gleneagles label on his shirt. We had two grass courts behind the stadium and it was the only courts he practiced on. After Ivan left, Steffi Graf came and she happened to be No. 1 in the world at the same time. So we had two No. 1's in the world back to back. Steffi lived here and she worked out with our Head Pro Astrid Suurbek, who is a world-class player. She's played all of the grand slam tournaments like Wimbledon in Australia. Chris Evert has also done some things here. I also held a celebrity event with Muhammad Ali and Bernie Kopell from "The Love Boat."

MEMBERS FIRST:

"I have a tennis committee that's also my eyes and ears to members' needs. We have a tennis concierge system. When new members join here, I'll take them by the hand and myself or my head pro Astrid will set them up personally with a group to play in. We'll hit with them first and evaluate them to make sure they end up in the right group. We make sure they don't get lost. We're always making games for them."

ROLE CALL:

"Teaching lessons as a tennis pro is one of the hats I wear. The marketing phase and entertaining of our members is paramount. There are a lot of socials and activities. Typically, the more food I have with the event, the more successful the event is! There's two things I've learned not to compete with at Gleneagles – golf and food. We have a lot of different ability and age level leagues. That's kind of the life blood of the tennis system that keeps them going and motivated."

GRAND SLAM:

"I really enjoy the status tennis has within this club. This is a sports club. Most members join Gleneagles for golf or tennis. It's really a sports facility. It's about helping those people get everything they can out of their facility. The staff here doesn't turn over too often. Our maintenance guys have been here 20 years. Astrid's been here 20 years. I've been here a long time, so it's a good home for us and the members. If you're going to come to work, you might as well have fun."

FAITH, HOPE & CHARITY: GLENEAGLES GIVES BACK

BY JOANIE COX

The philanthropic nature of Gleneagles members is not only inspiring but it's also deeply beneficial to the community. Here are several ways Gleneagles members are making a difference in the world:

Play For Pink

Laura Lassman, founder and president of Play for Pink; Nancy Goodman, co-chair; Meyer Grodetsky, Gleneagles member and donor to Play for Pink; Ray Myers, Gleneagles outside operations manager; Rona Greenspan, committee member; Jason Hrynkiw, Gleneagles head pro; Doris Budow, co-chair; Diana Forman, committee member; Judy Shatz, committee member

The prestigious Play For Pink event raised $224,875 to the Breast Cancer Research Foundation, which funds breast-cancer awareness and the battle for a cure for this disease which affects about one in eight women in the United States.

With Doris Budow and Nancy Goodman as co-chairs of Play For Pink, this annual golf tournament and luncheon is a two-day event that gets hundreds of members involved annually. "We are so proud of this event. We do a Play For Pink boutique, which also raises several thousand dollars," Budow says. "Every year, it gets bigger and better and we can't wait to show you what we're doing in the upcoming year. Myra Goldman adds: "The element of charity at Gleneagles is stupendous. We do everything we possibly can to raise money for this cause."

Hadassah Genesis

This volunteer Jewish organization helps strengthen a bridge with Israel through medical, educational and community programs. Gleneagles has about 370 members, who meet monthly to raise money for the group and stay informed on newsworthy topics through guest speakers. "I have a strong feel for Israel, so being involved with this is very important to me," says Adele Albert. "Hadassah treats women, men, Jews, Muslims – everyone. They're on the cusp of discovering new things all the time. I'm hoping that working with them, eventually, we'll achieve peace." Raising more than $40,000 a year, this chapter of Hadassah was actually the first charity group launched at Gleneagles when the community was built.

Eagles Cancer Chapter

This charitable group at Gleneagles hosts fashion shows, canasta games and boutique events to raise money for The Paps Corps, an organization devoted to cancer research. "I could cry thinking of how much this organization helps," says Sheila Yerusalim. "We even have many men involved with the cause now, which is wonderful." Lisa Hammer, who is also involved with the cause met Sheila through a game of Mahjong and the rest is history on how they got together and decided to help. "Every year we sell tributes and raise money. The Paps Corps helps research all types of cancer which is truly remarkable."

Special Olympics

Gleneagles first became involved with the Special Olympics in 1998. Because of the club's outstanding contributions, the Aquatic Center at the Club Manager's Association of America Therapeutic Recreation Complex at John Prince Park is named after the club – Gleneagles Country Club Aquatic Center.

Medical Dolls

Charity at Gleneagles also goes out to children. Several Gleneagles members meet once a week to sew dolls for kids at local children's hospitals. The dolls are then used by doctors to explain the surgery the patient is about to undergo. The dolls, which are dressed in a hospital gown and come with a hand-knit cap, do not have faces because the child is given markers to draw their own face on the doll. The patient is also given a hand-knit cap that matches their doll's cap to wear. Since many children who receive these dolls have cancer or brain surgery and lose their hair, having a cap that matches their doll's cap is very special for the child. Hundreds of these dolls are delivered each year but the difference it makes in these children's lives is immeasurable.

TORY BURCH BRANCHES OUT WITH A NEW LOCATION

BY JOANIE COX

Tory Burch has perfected the preppy-bohemian looks with her embellished tunics, timeless cardigans and style staples, such as her Reva ballet flats. At 5-foot-11, I've always been on the hunt for fantastic flats that were well-made and could be dressed up with a suit or A-line dress or paired with jeans and tank top for a more casual ensemble. But Burch's handbags are another wardrobe wonder to obsess over. This fall, it's all about ladylike handbags in bold colors such as red and cobalt blue and brown designs.

Town Center at Boca Raton is now home to its very own Tory Burch boutique. The 2,600-square-foot store opened Aug. 5 and will stock clothing, shoes, eye wear, jewelry and of course, purses and other small leather accessories. As the 53rd store in Burch's empire, the structure of the boutique is similar to the designer's original Elizabeth Street store in New York City. The shop features mirrored walls and leopard print chairs and a touch of Florida with palm tree-print wall decor. While Oprah, Cameron Diaz, Katherine Heigl and Halle Berry are huge fans of her line, I've personally seen celebrities in South Florida wearing her accessories. On March 29, I spotted Venus Williams carrying a Tory Burch "Amanda Shopper" at One Thousand Ocean in Boca Raton and on June 16, I went to an event super model Niki Taylor was hosting at Opustone Natural Stone Distributors in Miami's Design District. Taylor, who is the new spokesmodel for the luxurious brand which distributes fine marble, granite and unique stones for counter tops and other home decor options, was sporting a pair of black Tory Burch pumps the day I met with her.

This fall, Burch takes fashion to great lengths with the "midi dress," a look that hits the leg mid-calf. It's a welcome '70s retro trend and a flattering alternative to the extreme mini or maxi dresses of previous seasons we've seen on various designers' runways. This fall, feminine silk blouses, bold gold jewelry and loafers of various heel heights will rule the hottest shoe looks.

Tory Burch is located at 6000 Glades Road, Suite 1067A in Boca Raton. Call 561-391-0373 or visit Toryburch.com.

BOCA POINTE TO HOST A PARTY JIMMY BUFFET WOULD LOVE

The Club is celebrating Labor Day “Key West style” with a Margaritaville dinner dance. The club has another outstanding social calendar planned with events such as “Sail Away with La Mystique” and a Halloween “Member Mingle.” A full calendar of on site Lifelong Learning classes featuring professors from FAU and Lynn University are also available for members so they can continue their education without having to leave their community.

From music history to politics and speakers such as Dr. Jeffrey Morton from FAU and Dr. Robert Watson from Lynn University, expanding your horizons is endless at Boca Pointe. THE LATEST AT BOCA WOODS COUNTRY CLUB NEW SUPERINTENDENT

Boca Woods Country Club recently hired Jason Sprinkle as the new Greens Superintendent. Jason comes from Turtle Creek Golf Club in Tequesta, where he served for eight years. He brings 20 years of experience in the golf industry including five years in the Philippines building and managing a 72-hole operation. He has also worked at Frenchman's Creek, Palm Beach Polo and Old Marsh Golf Club. Jason will supervise the renovation and grow-in of the Lakes Course, the second of two golf courses to undergo major renovation at Boca Woods. He carries a 7 handicap and resides in Boynton Beach.

LAKES COURSE RENOVATION IN-PROGRESS

An exciting 36-hole golf course renovation project began last summer and is near completion. A new irrigation system is being installed; the greens on both golf courses are being replaced with a modern hybrid putting surface for optimum playability; and the tee boxes on both courses are being enlarged and re-surfaced. The sand bunkers will be enhanced with new sand and the cart paths will be completely restored. In addition, the ladies' and senior tees will be carefully placed to make the Lakes Course more appealing to juniors, women and seniors.

CABANA GRILLE AND POOL AREA RENOVATION

The membership recently approved a $500,000 renovation for a casual dining venue, The Cabana Grille. Bill Buscaglia, a board member and project manager, is collaborating with club management and Image Design to create an Old Florida feel for the casual dining facility. The club's award winning chef, Dominick Laudia, designed the kitchen with all-new equipment to create an exciting and diverse menu for the club. The new Grille has a pick-up window for golfers and will serve the changing demographics of the club. The pool area will also be enhanced with lush Florida landscaping, new patio furniture and big umbrellas for a posh poolside experience.

BOCA GROVE GOLF & TENNIS CLUB GETS NEW COURSE

Without hesitation, the crown jewel of the sprawling Boca Grove community is the club's championship golf course. The newly renovated and redesigned golf course by Jim Fazio is scheduled to open this fall. As a former host to previous professional events, Boca Grove's fine fairways offer scenic beauty and a challenge for all levels of golfers. There's rarely a wait for a tee time and the course offers seven sets of tees for everyone in the family. The new course is another gem to treasure about the boutique-style residential community, which is recognized as one of South Florida's most affluent enclaves.

POSITIVE CHANGES ABOUND AT WOODFIELD

Woodfield Country Club recently announced the promotion of Eben M. Molloy, CCM, to General Manager. Eben has been with Woodfield since February 2008 as Assistant General Manager.

Prior to joining the Woodfield team, Eben held the position of Clubhouse Manager at Farmington Country Club in Virginia and various positions at the Chevy Chase Club in Maryland.

WOODFIELD MEMBERS SUPPORT CHARITY BREAK-THROUGH COLLABORATIVE

Pine Crest High School student and Woodfield member Jacob Greenberg again collaborated with Woodfield to host a book drive benefitting the local chapter of the national nonprofit Break-through Collaborative. With a goal of exceeding the 2009 book collection (500 books), the student surpassed his goal by collecting more than 700 books from club members which will be used to assist students with economic challenges excel in academics.

WOODFIELD DEBUTS PGA FAMILY GOLF COURSE

This past June, Woodfield hosted a Junior Golf Family Play Day to introduce the brand new PGA Family Golf Course.

Woodfield is one of the first clubs in the area to install the PGA Family Golf Course, which adds two additional tees to the front nine holes whose distances are suited to younger players' ability levels. Now members of all ages can enjoy Woodfield's state-of-the-art golfing facilities.

ADDISON RESERVE GETS NEW CHEF

Addison Reserve Country Club, Delray Beach, is pleased to welcome Zach Bell as its new executive chef. “We are thrilled that Zach is joining us at the club,” says Michael McCarthy, CEO and GM. “Our membership is going to be treated to culinary creations from an extremely talented young man.” Bell, who was one of eight chefs chosen to provide a tasting menu for a reception to the U.S. House of Representatives for an initiative to improve nutrition in the school system. He has contributed to culinary events for The Daily Bread Food Bank, the March of Dimes and also makes regular demo appearances on South Florida

Today.

ADDISON RESERVE GOES HIGH TECH

Addison Reserve Country Club, Delray Beach, FL has launched an optimized version of its website through mobile application. The application, hosted by MembersFirst and designed for both the iPhone and Droid smart phones, will allow members to access up-to-the-minute information from the site (www.addisonreserve.cc). “The mobile app offers a perfect complement to our existing site allowing us the opportunity to reach our on-the-go members 24 hours a day. In addition, we see this as an excellent marketing tool on the public side of the application, says McCarthy.” “In today's fast-paced, technology-driven world, immediate access to information is a must; prospective members can now easily find the perfect South Florida country club and residential community from the comfort of their northern Starbucks or living room.” The app will also update members on the $20 million Clubhouse Renovation and Enhancement project and Golf Course Renovation project, which is slated for a fall completion.

EUROPEAN RED CLAY COURT TENNIS HITS ST. ANDREWS

At St. Andrews Country Club, the club prides itself on sparing no expense to provide its members with an unparalleled experience. The latest example of this commitment can be seen by venturing down to tennis court No.15 – where you will see the first red clay court in the area. The club has imported European red clay directly from Italy for its members' enjoyment. There is simply no substitute for true European clay, according to representatives at the club. From championship golf courses and fine dining experience to new genuine red clay tennis court, St. Andrews Country Club is proud to provide its member with the total package.
